Trump should not surrender the White House

Exclusive: Scott Lively outlines a counter-strategy to the 'Big Lie'

If not for the surreal, unprecedented "Big Lie" conspiracy of the elites who monopolize our public information systems (Big Media and Big Tech) – and who dominate the top strata of our institutions, including the courts and intelligence agencies – all fair-minded Americans would agree that the 2020 election was irredeemably corrupted by fraud.

The overwhelming preponderance of the evidence on the Trump side is matched only by the intensity of the criminal suppression of it by the anti-Trump side. Now even President Trump is admitting that it may be impossible to get his case to the Supreme Court for verification of his election-night victory through a full disclosure and review of the evidence by the constitutionalist majority of justices.

If that turns out to be the case – and the elites have so thoroughly solidified control over the legal and political mechanisms which the Founders established for us – it will mean that they have broken the U.S. Constitution itself. They will have accomplished what none of us believed possible: a coup d'état by means of the Purple Revolution. That's the domestic version of the color revolutions by which the globalist left and our CIA have overthrown governments across the globe, which I have been writing about since before Trump's inauguration in January 2017.

Now we know why Pelosi and the other narrative-setters of the Purple Revolution began injecting the then-mystifying accusation (without a shred of evidence) that Trump might refuse to vacate the White House on Jan. 20. They expected to be able to block Trump from getting his case to SCOTUS and to gaslight such a huge portion of the electorate with the "no evidence of fraud" Big Lie that we would accept their theft of the presidency as "constitutional" and acquiesce to a "peaceful transition of power."

I still believe SCOTUS will get the case and rescue the nation from the Marxists. And I believe the fallback contingency of presidential electors being chosen by the state legislatures is a second path to preserving the republic.

However, if these last constitutional barriers to the overthrow of the United States are defeated by the globalists, there is only one remaining option for the free and just America our Founders bequeathed to us: a declaration of national emergency by President Trump to allow him to remain in office long enough for a new election to be conducted. It would need to be held by means guaranteed to ensure its fairness, with every step of the process except the secret ballot casting itself being done under full public scrutiny and recorded on video.

It is essential to recognize in the face of this election-fraud crisis that the U.S. Constitution is not the deepest foundation of our country. The bedrock on which the Constitution was constructed is the Declaration of Independence. It is in that document that we find the remedy for curing the Marxist cancer that has put America on her death bed.

Having been a frontline culture-war activist for more than three decades of America's incremental take-over – fighting a rearguard action against same leftist elements now arrayed against Trump (with many deep battle scars to prove it) – I perceived that the trajectory of the Purple Revolution would likely bring us to this precipice. Therefore, on Nov. 17, 2016, I predicted exactly what has now transpired:

1) An army of faceless anarchists engaged in civil disobedience and property destruction on an "anti-fascism" theme (imagine the explosion of street violence in the late 1960s but employing "social justice" rather than anti-war rhetoric – like Black Lives Matter but bigger and broader). This is designed to terrorize the public but also to deliberately provoke police reactions that can be documented on film and edited to misrepresent the police as Brownshirt-style fascists.

2) A coordinated propaganda campaign by all the usual suspects on the left in media, academia, Hollywood, and the non-profit/foundations sector, branding the Trump administration as a fascist regime akin to the Third Reich. This will build slowly but inexorably as the left gathers and weaves together its case like a crooked prosecutor in the courtroom of international opinion.

3) Obstruction of conservative policy through guerrilla litigation tactics by groups such as the Center for Constitutional Rights and Southern Poverty Law Center, and their silent partners in the federal judiciary.

I outlined a broadbrush counter-strategy in that article as well that remains timely. But on Jan. 7, 2020, after my predictions had come true and cracks had begun to show in the foundation-stones of the Constitution, I foresaw the potential need for a more legally oriented, proto-constitutional remedy grounded in the Declaration of Independence.

Specifically this clause: "[G]overnments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed ... [thus] whenever any form of government becomes destructive to these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government."

I drafted a "Declaration of Restoration" that frames the legal path forward. My prescription then and now is invoke this law to alter, not abolish, our government, by the use of the emergency powers of the president, to impose necessary election reforms through a new presidential election with just two sections: 1) a re-vote for president and all down-ticket races; and 2) a binding referendum question allowing voters to affirm or reject the reform package as a guarantee of election integrity in all future elections.

Hillary Clinton pronounced on Aug. 25 that Joe Biden should not concede the election under any circumstances. In retrospect, I believe she was baiting a trap for conservatives to jump on her with both feet and thus preemptively neuter any argument from our side that Trump should not concede. I never took that bait, and I'm saying, loud and clear right now, that Donald Trump should not vacate the White House unless he does so because he agrees he legitimately lost the election and was not cheated out of it through election fraud.

If he knows the election was fraudulent and he really did win, he has a legal and moral duty to preserve the republic by implementing an election do-over.

Dear WND Reader,

As America's political and culture wars rage, another battle is taking place in the news media.

Google, Facebook and the rest of Big Tech blatantly suppress Christian-conservative content while vacuuming up 90% of the advertising that once supported online news. It's a tough time for truth-oriented journalism.

WND, the nation's oldest independent news site and largest Christian website, is a rare combination of experienced professional journalists AND strong Judeo-Christian worldview. And we know most Americans—often portrayed as “ignorant hicks” and “bigots” living in flyover country—share our pro-American values and want real news, accurate information and insightful analysis on today's crucial issues.

That's what WND has delivered since 1997, all for free—no paywalls—an increasing rarity in the online news world.

Instead, we rely on the voluntary contributions of appreciative readers like you—now more than ever.

If you value WND, please make a donation in any amount to keep us alive and well. In so doing, you'll be keeping the First Amendment and American freedom alive as well!
